

Dan Barody

Elmira, New York dabarody@gmail.com linkedin.com/in/danbarody www.dodill.com

I am the person you call when something is complicated, behind, or falling apart. I organize, I problem-solve, and I bring a creative eye to everything I touch. Nearly two decades of doing exactly that across communications, design, and operations, and I always strive to leave everything I touch in a better place than I found it.

Experience

UX & UI Product Designer

Salient, Big Flats, New York, Jul 2014 – Present

- Led UX and UI design for a suite of enterprise business intelligence applications, building the reporting and dashboard interfaces clients use to read performance and trend data.
- Contributed to the internal marketing team on web content, digital advertising, and email campaigns, and assisted in the redesign and rebuild of the company website while helping guide its digital marketing goals.
- Serve as the in-house technical guide for email content, advising the development team on template structure and build requirements.
- Built and maintained design systems and component libraries, enforcing brand and layout consistency across client-facing platforms.
- Translated complex data concepts into clear, accessible language and visuals for non-technical audiences.
- Conducted usability research and user testing, synthesizing findings into recommendations that shaped ongoing product decisions.
- Managed concurrent deliverables across departments, working with business and development teams to keep projects on schedule.

Director of Digital Content and Design

Elmira College, Elmira, New York, Feb 2008 – Jul 2014

- Originated every one of Elmira College's social media channels, launching and running the institution's first Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, and Instagram presences and building each audience from zero.
- Independently directed the full redevelopment and public launch of Elmira College's website, owning content strategy and coordinating internal departments and outside vendors through launch.
- Published and maintained web content for departments across the institution in the college's content management system, keeping public-facing pages current.
- Built the email marketing templates and oversaw campaigns running from student recruitment through alumni donations.
- Wrote, edited, and designed print and digital publications including viewbooks, brochures, newsletters, and event materials.
- Prepared press releases, public statements, and crisis communications for release through digital, social, and print channels.

Creative Director

inCommand Technologies, Corning, New York, Aug 2006 – Mar 2008

- Designed and built client-facing websites using a proprietary content management system, HTML, and CSS, managing end-to-end delivery for multiple clients at once.
- Created email marketing templates, campaign content, and digital advertising for clients including Pyrex and World Kitchen.

Graphic Designer

Elmira Star-Gazette, Elmira, New York, Sep 2005 – Aug 2006

- Designed and produced print advertising in a high-volume, deadline-driven newsroom, managing 75+ ads and supporting assets each daily production cycle.
- Led the department's transition from film-based to fully digital desktop production, rapidly mastering new tools under pressure.

Education

Bachelor of Fine Arts, Graphic Design

SUNY Oswego, 2002 – 2005

Associate of Arts, Art Studies

Corning Community College, 1999 – 2002

Skills

Digital Marketing

Website content management
Email campaigns
Content strategy
Social media platforms
Digital advertising

Web & Technical

HTML & CSS
Email template build
CMS platforms
Google Analytics
Responsive layout
Figma & Adobe XD
Usability testing

Content

Copywriting & editing
Press materials
Newsletters
Photography & video
Digital publications

Tools

Adobe Creative Suite
Canva
Microsoft Office Suite
Google Workspace
Claude & ChatGPT